Genie MARS-$22.95

by New Horizons Software Summon the GENIE from your computer - in the blink of an eye! Suspend whatever you are doing and: edit and print a file, use a five function desk calculator, look up Atari control codes, & perform DOS operations! And once you are done, return to EXACTLY where YOU LEFT OFF! Genie even works with the Atari Numerical Keypad (but you don't need one to use GENIE). Requires an Atari XL or XE computer with at least 64K, since it utilizes the 16K of memory that is hidden "under" the operating system. Note that GENIE will not work with any programs that use the same 16K region of memory. This means that the few programs that require the translator disk will not work with GENIE, for example.

 2. Throw to attempt to cut down base runners at any base
 - b. Offensive selections
 1. Allow play to take its normal course of events
 2. Have lead runner try to take an extra base
 4. Full screen-wide scoreboard explodes on homeruns. Every play is played out on the screen and a brief text description is displayed. Two umpires make every call, pitchers may tire if used beyond their normal innings pitched per appearance, and switch hitters switch.
- C. After each baseball game is the Game Score Card including:
1. Each player's game statistics for the completed game
 2. Each pitcher's game statistics for the completed game
 3. Optional print-out feature including the screen-wide scoreboard
 4. The ability to save each game statistics for season totals for every player and pitcher and team (over 65,000 at bats per player and over 20,000 innings pitched per pitcher) including over 10 offensive and over 10 pitching categories.

II. View Statistics

- A. Select any team on any disk to view their actual or compiled statistics
- B. Optional print-out feature for all statistics including compiled team
- C. Shows all offensive and pitching statistics saved by the user including:
 1. at bats, runs, hits, 2bs, 3bs, HRs, RBIs, SBs, SOs, BBs, batting average, slugging percentage for compiled data
 2. innings pitched, hits allowed, strike outs, walks, runs allowed, earned runs allowed, homers allowed, wins, losses, saves, E.R.A.

III. Start New Season erases all compiled statistics for each team on the disk selected to start new season on. Allows the user to replay season after season many times with a multitude of teams and trade possibilities.

IV. Make Trades allows the users to be a General Manager as well as a field manager. Trades may be made between teams on any disk, player for player or pitcher for pitcher or player for pitcher

V. Draft New Teams makes Allstar teams as easy to create as pushing a few buttons. This feature allows the users to create their own teams with the players on any disk. Instead of moving players between teams like the Trade feature does, drafting duplicates players on your new teams

VI. Score Keeping keeps track of Little League teams, softball teams, Major League teams, leagues and tournaments. Team and player totals including:

1. at bats, runs, hits, 2bs, 3bs, HRs, RBIs, SBs, SOs, BBs, sacrifices, on base on errors, fielder's choices, hit by pitches, batting averages, slugging percentages, and on base percentages
2. innings pitched, hits allowed, runs allowed, earned runs allowed, strike outs, walks, homers allowed, wild pitches, hit batsmen, wins, losses, saves, E.R.A.
3. Optional print-out feature including team totals

VII. Front Office is the program feature that does everything else the other features don't do, including: adding and deleting players to and from rosters, printing team disk directories, duplicating team files, printing win-loss records for every team, team data fix routines and more

VIII. The Creator lets the users enter team and player data to create their own teams, creates the files for draft team, creates the files for score keeping and more.

IX. Top 20 on Disk sorts through the approximately 20,000 statistics for the 1600 players and pitchers per disk to determine which players are the top 20 in each compiled statistical category for that disk. The optional print-out feature is included here also. Every player and pitcher who has had game statistics saved may be included in this sort routine. You may also select certain teams to sort through, or each team separately.

Legends truly live on MONDAY MORNING MANAGER The Baseball Game. This program is the most comprehensive, user friendly, strategy sports program ever created. You don't need a bat or a ball or a pitcher, but realistic baseball action and behind the scenes trades and drafts bring baseball to the home computer for the first time. Building your own teams or playing the teams of yesterday and today is all a part of this program. Great sound from the crack of the bat to "Take Me Out to the Ballgame" (in three computer voices), and graphics including the only screen-wide exploding scoreboard make the action realistic. Additional team disks are also available, each with 64 teams per disk. Statistical accuracy has been tested in over 3,000 games and is within 1 percent. Being able to save over 6 careers worth of statistics per player means you can play a lifetime and still be able to save more. This program has been called the "Closest thing to being a Major League Manager as well as General Manager". The game has been played on National network television (including cable) before the 1984 playoffs and before the 1985 Allstar game. All statistics used in MONDAY MORNING MANAGER are provided by the National Baseball Library at the National Baseball Hall of Fame, and numerous Baseball encyclopedias to insure accuracy.
